Relief Funds For Man-Made and Natural Disasters and Crises

From hurricanes to rockets, from flooding to earthquakes, the Jewish Federation raises the dollars necessary to help communities hit by devastation and despair. In 2017, more than $23 million was raised nationally for Hurricane Harvey relief efforts proving that the power of the collective is as strong as ever.

Rallies and Vigils

We gather our Jewish community together during times when our voices must be heard. Planning and Allocations

Each year, our Jewish Federation engages scores of volunteers who provide hundreds of combined hours to determine allocations to organizations and initiatives within our Jewish Federation's mission through our Planning and Allocations Committee. Additionally, there are sub-committees for short-term grants, Israel and Overseas, and agency stewardship. The Jewish Federation's Board also approves allocations for initiatives which the Board has identified as priorities, Jewish Federation programs and program departments, and, ultimately, approves the entire recommendation of the Planning and Allocations Committee.

Core Allocation

Core funding is allocated to current partner agencies who submit annual updates about the agency to the Jewish Federation. Core funding is financial support that can be used by the partner agency for any of its critical mission-driven work.

Long-Term Grants

Long-Term grants address ongoing needs of a partner agency whether they are new or an expansion of existing programs of an agency. The period to implement the funded initiative is 18 months to three years. The partner agency can request up to $75,000 annually per grant.

Short-Term Grants

Short-Term grants address needs of partner agencies and other Jewish organizations in Dallas to be implemented over the coming 12 months. Organizations can request up to $20,000 per grant. A partner agency can submit a maximum of two applications per year in any combination of short-term and long-term grants. Other Jewish organizations can submit up to two short-term grant applications.
